University Arts and Science

Effective Term & Year: Fall 2024

Course Outline Review Date: 2029-04-01

Program Area: Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences

Description:

This course surveys Canada's historical development from Confederation's aftermath to the contemporary period. Consideration is given to the changes and continuities arising from Canada's territorial growth; economic consolidation under the national policy, including incorporating large numbers of immigrants; cleavages in their various manifestations; imperialism-continentalism choices; industrialization/urbanization/reform movements; responses to military events; post-war international/social decisions; Sixties' upheavals, and Indigenous Peoples' marginalization.

From their study, students should acquire greater historical consciousness about this country's post Confederation era and critically question whether Canadians' attempts to create a great nation were best for all.
